AMOY NOTES,

(From Our Own Correspondent).

Church, Kulangsu, at 11 s.m. on Friday, 20th May, for his late most gracious Maconducted by Rev. James Sadler, who gave a short address, and the attendance was its doors. Beethoven's "Marche Funchre" was played before the service, and at the rendered, everyone standing with howed

There seems to have been the usual scars and panic among the ignorant and superstitious about the end of the world, to be brought about by poor, harmless Halley's comet. One hears of people selling their goods and belongings, and one wonders what they do that for. If they sense in it, but to sell for money seems the height of madness. What do they propose to do with the money they receive?

less cloudy day, and observations here were made under difficulties. One person, however, claims to have seen the comet in transit, the time of observation being between, 11.30 and 12 moon, Amoy time. He claims to have seen a black speck travel was using a pair of powerful prismutic binoculars, and smoked glass, and made four observations at varying intervals, each time seeing this black spot. At the time, this But, if what this gentleman saw was not the comet, then what was it? [A sun 580 - *pot.-Ed.]

Since the transit, we have had persistently cloudy weather, until today, which is cloudless, and we should be afforded an opportunity this evening of viewing our rapid y disappearing visitor;

practically certain that a large proportion of the local rice crop will be lost. The fields are becoming parched and dry, and the wells and ponds have very little water left. In addition to this, we have had strong northerly winds for several days, and this factor has been the cause of an increase in plugue cases in parts of the city, and up country.

The Government of Singapore has quarantined Amoy on account of plague.

An American tournament for Mixed Doubles (partners to be drawn for) has been arranged for next, Friday afternoon the tournament to be played and finished a on the same day.

BILLIARDS. A pyramid billiard tournament has been in progress for some weeks in the Costores Club, Kulangsu, and the semi-finals are now on. To-night, Mesers Neil on, and Joseland most, and to mentow Mentra J. D. CHEUNG DN STEAMBOAT CO., LD. Edwards, and H. Brown. These games should produce some fine tuasles, though some profess to be able to spot the winner.

(From Our Ocen Correspondent.)

LOYD: N. May 4. We are having to pay more lately our bacon and other provisious, so I have been chatting with a very big merchant about it. In the course of our converantion he said some things about Chinese pork and other Eastern provisions that may interest you.

"It is evident" heasaid, "that the demand for American provisions in this country has reached a-very low ebb. During the last three months the American packer has been asking exorbitant prices in his own country, so it is obvious we would not want those goods here, especially as the products of other countries nearer home, claiming to be of better quality. have been available at the same price and even less.

"Last week there came into Liverpool only 3,000 boxes of bacon and hams from all American ports-we used to get twenty thousand boxes in a week. So evidently the Britisher can rub along without the American article. This may please some people but it means heavy loss for a great many in the provision trade who were engaged in this trans-Atlantic businese.

.. What the cutcome will be it is difficult to foresee but it may be assumed that the swing of the pendulum will create in time larger production and lower prices. In the meantime such countries as Siberia and Northern Russia, with almost limitless tracts of territory for hog producing-and only needing good, cheap and quick transit -are doing their best to jump in o the "Already we have had a good quantity of meats from there and the quality shows the ment has come to stay as a source of supply, but the transit question is a serious one. Freights in some cases are as high as a sovereign a hundred weight from some points of these countries. But those rates will come down in time.

"Then China, in spite of the hostile attitude which has been assumed in regard to the pork recently imported, will certainly be a great source of supply in time to come. The Chinese pork which has been turned into becon in the Isle of Man is finding a character it does not bear out the hostile criticism that have been hurled at it. The main point as regards this commodity, as in fact with those of all countries, is that the consumer must be satisfied that it i produced and fed, under proper hygienic Statement of Accounts for the year ending

"As to the future, it must be rememupon rice-not the black scavenger swine -it will compare favourably with anything of the kind in the world. If the pig were brought, in of small size, and from six to Hongkong, May 25, 1910. nine months old, it would have a better chance. There would be no difficulty whatever on the part of an ordinary purchaser in detecting Chinese hams or perk, for it could not, for one thing, however treated, be cut down to pass as any of our present ham products. Nor could it be minced up for ordinary sausage of good qualities; with regard to which high class makers are as particular as anyone else. For the present there is no immediate prospect of selling Chinese pigs." They must be disposed of clsewhere in Europe.

But Mr John Burns in the House of Commons and the Medical Officer of the Port of London have done their best to remove the prejudice against Chinese pork. The Medical Officer has specially issued a report combatting the idea that the pigs are unclean and in such a condition that they are calculated to give rise to trichinosis.

"I have selected a hundred pigs at random" said the report, "and found the carcuses to be very large, and fat. removed portions of the diaphragm and other muscular tissues and examined the same microscopically without, however, finding anything which was at all indicative or suspicious of trichinosis.""

Of the 4641 carcases received at the wharf 4250 were passed as fit for food leaving only 8-4 per cent to be rejected. . In the same report strong condemation was made of a consignment of tuberculous American frozen pork, and the comment is made, "On the whole, judging from these two consignments, Chinese pork seems preferable to that from the United States."

The New York Sun scems to be anlry with Great Britain over the next Exporters Opium Conference, to judge from cabled extracts-but of course the Sun is anti-British at any time. The cause of annoyance this time is that England has not leaped forward to participate in the next conference auggested by the United States. In England or any other Western nation stands in the way of the regeneration that has become the purpose of Chinese statesmanship, says the Sun the next opium war will not be like the puny struggles of 1340 and 1858." The article proceeds that though England banished alayery from her dominions at immense cost to herself before the American Civil War she has lagged far behind America in the cause of emancipating the human race from the curse of opium. England, thinks this candid critic, exposes herself to "suspicion and distrust" when she doubts the sincurity of the opinm crusade in China and pleads that so long as the Chinese produce most of the opium which they consume the ex-WARE, MEROHANTS. proclain and ouriou gathered while in the net. I understand he has managed to cure some particularly fine specimens of venteenth censury Chiquese ware as well some very interesting Tibetan relies. The puzzle of what to do with him conrues. There is club talk of making him Far Minister in the next Conservative binet but he is not really a party man nd he would hardly be a suitable collean ue, after all, to Lord Curron and Lord lidleton, both of whom have got the worst it in conflict with him over Indian affairs. at nobody believes the Mediterranean mmand will keep him long. At any rate o is likely to be put at the head of ne Imperial Defence Committee sconer Writing of India reminds me that there re serious reports in private letters that re coming home from Eastern Bengal. he discontent appears to have impregnatall classes and now white women are louted at by natives where formerly no stive would have dared to so offend." Some officials are sending their wives nd families home in the conviction that a ery small thing may set the tinder adame the present situation.

MACAO NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Macao, May 23.

The are alarm called the brigades out at .20 p.at. last night to an outbreak in a natch shop to the North of the Rus Nova el Rei. Of the three houses destroyed we were drug shops. The property was wned by Mr Sio Tang.

The installation of the electrical apmratus being now completed the new seacon at Guia Head starts operating on Vednesday next. Its historic predecessor ras the first light set up on the coast of hins... On Thursday last Chao Chou Chiong and Chao Kwok Sau, managing partner and partner respectively of the late Eng Fong touse, were arrested on a charge of raudulent bankruptcy.

Macio, May 24. The fraudulent bankruptcy charge against the two partners of the Eng Fong firm throws a lurid side light on the devious resources of native tradespeople which it appears has been rather rampant in the Colony.

On 23rd. March hist the Eng Fong store declared itself insolvent. Nine days prior to the above date they received a supply of oil to the value of $122.25 from the San Yek Chan of Macao in addition to sundry other cargoes from merchants in Hongkong. On the identical date of reception the San Yek Chan sent in for mantels, Vases, Engravings, &c., &c. collection of the amount due, which Chao Kwok San, the managing partner, refused | Wardrobes, Marble-top Washstandar, &c. to pay on grounds of insolvency. The creditor then insisted on being refunded the oil which was seen lying about the store along with a deal of other merchandise. Thereupon the other partner, Chao Chou Chiong (alloged instigator of the fraud) protested against the removal of article on the plea that he was heavily involved in the firm's besides being surety for the concern to the extent of $3,500. " Howa few days later the papers published that the Eng Fong store had been made over to one Yao Yee Tang (a spurious personality) and that the new business was to be carried out under the style of Eng Fong Yao Ki. The late proprietors held themselves responsible for all the liabilities incurred by the Eng Fong store prior to date of assignment and had no further lien on the bulk of the assets, which henc. forward belonged unreservedly to the now establishment. ... As a matter of fact when the Eng Fong shut down it was check-full of goods which had been ordered from various commission merchants and none of these credit orders exceeded $200.

Subsequent to the change of hands either Chao Chon Ching or his underlings would go from door to door and intervi w every one of the creditors of the late Eng Fong house in turn, linggle over terms, insinuate their influence among the upper rungs, threaten or otherwise terrify the deluded creditors and eventually whittle down to ten por cent the full discharge of the firm's indebtedness with the alternative of a recourse to law. As individual orders never exceeded $200, the creditor to make the most of a bud bargain acquiesced in the proposal rather than incur a lawsuit which would perhaps entail heavy expenses over and above a deal of worry. It came about, however, that the San Yek Chan firm did not mean to be, "done in the oye" and cost what it may they were bent on bringing the rogues to book. Hince they presented and proved their statement of claim and the two accused now await trial.

By the way, a certain renown attackes to Ohne Chou Chique as a past master in these ventures. Some years ago ho owned and managed the Cheong Wo Bank. One fine day it got bruited about that one of his cashiers had made off with a huge sum of nioney which had been entrusted to his care for transfer to Hongkong. The Bank suspended payment in consequence and contrived to get quit with the majority of creditors at 10 to 20 per cont. the more exacting being conciliated with 40 per cent. But overything came as grist to his mill, for Chao Chou Chiong thrived and in s short while he owned an ice inctory, set to the Eng Fong store, and handled respel etallicoders to sell at the prices pretty little pile of deposit notes from divers banking houses.

Mr W. N. Willis, an Australian of some note, who is at present visiting Singapore, Lauguests that public correspondence be inhas given the Sin apare Free Press some interesting details concerning a projected visit' to Australia by the late, King Edward. During the time when his late Majesty was Prince of Wales, Sir George Dibbs, then Prime Minister of Australia and a very dear friend of mine, was, said Mr Willis, paying a visit to Londonand became a general favourite and in the course of conversation was informed of the Prince's bronchial weakness. Sir George I boldly suggested to the Prince that he should try the inland air core of Aus-_tralia. The Prince laughed, shook his head, and said it was impossible, but that he pressed his views on her late Majesty Queen Victoria. Nothing was however done at the moment, and Her Majesty, dying, the Prince became King with no improvement in his malady. At the Coronation time, however, continued Mr Willis, when the Australian Premiers were there, the King's weakness was discussed with all secreey, the idea being that Queen Alexandra sh uld be Queen Regent, with the Prince of Wales to advise and help her and a council of all political parties of the kmpire to be appointed to help in advising Her Majesty. Thus it seemed possible the King might be able to get away for that cure which has wrought such wonders in thousands of similar cases. But international copplications cropped up and the scheme had to be abandoned.

The King fought on under the burden of his trouble, assisted by the support and to power of Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman, whom the King valued and liked as a friend. After the election, when national over His Majesty's health told the Court | heard of. . and the Prime Minister, that there were moments when the King's health was precarious and the former scheme of Queen.
